THEY STRIKE THE VEIN

The Town of Barker All Excited Over the Great Discovery.

ORE VERY RICH IN SILVER

The Moulton Mine Again Becomes a Very Valuable Property and the People are Rejoicing With a Great Joy.

GREAT FALLS, Jan. 20.—The people of Barker are thoroughly excited over the discovery of the long-looked-for vein in the Moulton mine, which was encountered a day or two ago about 50 feet from the 100-foot station. The actual width of the vein has not yet been ascertained, but miners have cut through four feet of solid galena with no sign of the wall. It is believed that the vein is fully as wide as it was at the first discovery, which exceeded 10 feet in width.

Superintendent Miller will at once increase the working force, and drift 100 feet each way in order to be sure of the extent of the body of ore. If it proves as large as it now indicates he will sink another 100 feet and then commence shipping ore. In a few days two carloads of ore will be sent to the Great Falls smelter, and if the returns are satisfactory the mine will be worked to its full capacity. The ore is believed to be very rich in silver and carries a large amount of lead. The discovery is of great importance to Barker, as it means prosperity to the camp, which has had a run of hard luck during the past year or two.

Everybody is watching the results of the work now going on, and should this well known mine develop into the bonanza anticipated, a vast amount of capital will be invested in adjacent mines and Barker will once more become the center of a beehive of mining industry.

MIGHTY CLOSE RACE.

Albert Wins the "Standard." First Prize, Webster Second Kelly Third.

GREAT FALLS, Jan. 20.—The contest for prizes offered by the STANDARD closed to-night, and there are three boys in Great Falls as proud and happy as ever a boy was when strutting around in his first pair of red-top boots. The contest opened on Dec. 22, with street sales aggregating 46 papers. The sales have constantly increased until to-day, when the grand total reached more than 400 papers. There were nine entries for the prizes, but early in the contest four of the boys dropped out, leaving five of the more plucky ones to fight the battle. The little fellows were hustlers from Hustleville and ran along so evenly that the result depended upon the last day's sales. For the last two days the boys have been constantly rustling customers to help them out, and their success is shown by the large number of papers sold to-day. At 8 o'clock to-night the count was made at the STANDARD office and the prizes awarded to the boys whose energy and perseverance brought them out on top. The first prize, an elegant suit of clothes, was won by Leo Albert; the second prize, a handsome silver watch, was carried off by Winifred Webster, while the $5 gold piece went to Raymond Kelly. Following is the number of papers sold by each of the contestants: Leo Albert, 649; Winnie Webster, 642; Raymond Kelly, 624; Willie Ashton, 580; Cassie Winehold, 164.

GREAT FALLS GIST.

GREAT FALLS, Jan. 20.—The frantic efforts of Fergus county officials to "gather in" that yellow metal is the subject of considerable amusement, and the details of the exciting race were read with interest in to-day's STANDARD.

That midnight ride to Armington resulted in saving $25,000 to those who appreciated the money—and got it. As a persuader it is alleged that a Winchester rifle is considered more convincing than the most eloquent argument.

The chinook still hovers over the northern portion of the state and the stockmen are happy—even if coal dealers look gloomy.

Every house on every street is now numbered and the people of Great Falls await free delivery with something akin to impatience.

Commander Gregg of this city, who is department chief of the G. A. R., is jubilant over a letter just received from the commander-in-chief, stating that the Montana department is the first to have sent in their annual report. Captain Gregg declares that this honor is due to the energetic work of Assistant Adjutant General Heldt, Assistant Quartermaster General Haven and Assistant Inspector General Snider.

Commissioner Pomeroy has discharged Rudolph Lanza, charged with taking the pest house from the Fort Shaw reserve. Lanza showed that the building was presented to him by Dr. Farnsworth, a former government agent.

Railroad men report traveling increasing each day, and judging from the number alighting from the trains, Great Falls appears to be the object point for a multitude.

It is said that J. J. Hill will arrive from the East in a day or two and pay some of the outlying coal districts a very thorough visit.

Sunday evening is "children's night" at the Presbyterian church, and Rev. Ramsey has a large number of little folks to initiate in the first paths of churchly duties.

The scarcity of servants in this city is a source of great inconvenience to housekeepers, as the demand is much greater than the supply. A hundred Eastern domestics could find ample employment here—and some of them eligible husbands.

The old soldiers, together with the local military company, will give a grand ball in the near future. The event is looked forward to with pleasant anticipation by lovers of entertainments of this character.

People of Neilhart will petition the department to establish a daily mail service between that place and Great Falls.

John Devine and Charles Frost of the Sun river country were in town yesterday, the latter on legal business and the former to visit friends. Mr. Devine is one of the old settlers of Montana, and for many years has been in business at Sun river.

He says he has watched the growth of Montana in general and Great Falls in particular and marvels at the change a few years has wrought in state and city.

The ladies of the Episcopal guild held a sale of useful and ornamental nicknacks at the Glass block this afternoon and business seemed brisk.

T. D. Merrill of St. Paul and A. J. Boyne, C. F. Moorhouse and M. A. Adams of Minneapolis are among the prominent arrivals to-day.

T. W. Pearson, jr., of New York city, is visiting friends at Great Falls this week.

Deputy Sheriff Scott of Lewistown is in the city on business connected with that bullion in the vaults of the Cascade National bank.

In attempting to board a moving street car yesterday, H. E. Pendergast narrowly escaped being crushed to death. He missed his footing and fell, but the tender saved his life, although his shoulder blade was broken and he sustained several other injuries.

The board of trade committee appointed to solicit membership secured a large number of names yesterday, and the impression prevails that at least 500 new members will be added.

England.

With England an artist is never done. Every turn reveals the historic, the artistic, the beautiful. England stands for the grandest triumphs of modern genius, the mightiest display of human forces. Nature has not denied her majestic scenic effects of coast and ocean, but man appears, like the giants of old, a builder of stupendous cities, colossal monuments and mammoth structures. The numerous views presented in the Royal Photograph gallery unfold a history startling in its variety and energy, an art which stops not short of the sublimest achievement, an industry that reduces every material to human use. What all the world has been England is, in poet, orator and statesman, cathedral and church, castle and palace, sculpture and painting, monument and ruin, bridge and aqueduct, fort and ship, science and invention, skill and courage. You look with wonder mingled with awe upon the surprises which cluster in so small and ocean washed area, as contained in the Royal Photograph gallery, which is presented with a year's subscription to the Daily STANDARD for $11.

"THE ROYAL PHOTOGRAPH GALLERY"

CONTAINS almost 1,000 photographs of the most strange, surprising and attractive views from every land and clime, the whole forming a grand panorama of the world from the creation to the present time, showing the beautiful and wonderful in the world of nature, buried cities, mysterious ruins, feudal castles, frowning towers, gloomy prisons, famous battles in the world's history, the great battlefields of our own and foreign nations, famous cities, cathedrals, mosques, beautiful lakes, bewildering and awful mountain scenery, the most celebrated paintings from the world's greatest artists, together with the most imposing buildings, triumphant arches, mausoleums, monuments and statues of every country on the face of the globe, to which is added portraits of the world's most famous people, including authors, artists, poets, sculptors, musicians, politicians, bankers, actors, actresses, presidents, kings, princes, members of royal families, and the people who rule the world, showing their homes and scenes in their lives.

The Royal Photograph Gallery reviews the whole world from the palm-encircled ornaments of the vast Pacific to the stirring energies of New York and London; from the past which antedates authentic history to the present day; from the slender capacity of pre-historic and savage ingenuity to the refined industry, the abundance, the organized power and the sympathetic humanity of modern progress. Light brightens the Dark Ages. Out of the mist and shadows troop a myriad of weird and wonderful subjects to beautify a halo, and to crown with interest the aisles and alcoves of the Royal Gallery. Nothing grander, more educating, more inspiring, than to gaze on the gloomy proportion of the feudal palace, castle, tower and prison; to witness the symmetry of mediæval churches, cathedrals, mosques, mausoleum and monument; to study the lines and colors in the immortal paintings, imperishable statuary and inimitable models of the grand old masters. Here the modern world is reflected in all its artistic and natural glory. The brilliantly illuminated pages are as if an imposing procession of the most thrilling, interesting, refining objects was passing before the eye and appealing to the mind. No subject is omitted which is of moment to lovers of the beautiful in nature and art; to students of the sublime; to admirers of the wonderful and striking; the worshippers of the majestic and awe-inspiring.

In selecting premiums the STANDARD has examined carefully every offer made. Our patrons get the best paper in the northwest and the best premium offer ever made by any newspaper.

Magnitude of the Royal Gallery. If the pages of this grand work were placed end to end so as to make a continuous panorama, the photographs would form an unbroken chain of wonderful and beautiful photographic scenes 400 feet in length, and sufficient to cover two sides of an acre lot, or would cover the sides of a large hall 10 feet high and 25 feet long. It is printed on heavy enameled paper, bound in cloth with a gold side and back stamp, making an exquisite addition to the home or library.
